25X1C [redacted] for a mission duration of 5+01 hours. Eleven of the 17 COMOR targets on this mission were covered including six for base line coverage. In addition, 28 other COMOR targets were photographed with varying results from poor to good due to cloud cover. 13 additional targets were also covered for a grand total of 52. There were five more targets overflown but they were completely obscured by clouds. Of particular interest was a photograph of the Nanhai Air Field/ Canton SA-2 site. Apparently, it is still in an operational configuration. Weather was worse than briefed in the northern portion of the route which was Category IV and V predominately. The western and southern areas were Category I. The south and east areas were varying Category II and III.

3. Air Defense Reactions (ChiCom): 25X1D

[redacted]

b. Fighter Reaction: No fighter intercepts were observed by the mission pilot, however, ChiCom radar tracking information indicated that scrambles were initiated from the Canton, Shui Kou and Lung Chi areas. A standby status was ordered at Nan Chang.

4. Sightings: The only sightings reported by the pilot were airfields. A long runway was observed in the Canton area located five miles south of the railroad. Lien Cheng and Hsing Ning Airfields were also observed. 25X1D
